HEMISPHERICAL SCALE - Hard to see when young as they are small and green. As they mature, they turn brown and hump as a turtle shell. They also sap the juice of the plant and secrete honeydew. If not checked it can kill your plant.

THRIP - Tiny, narrow, fast moving insects that may cause the buds to drop. They make white or silvery irregular patches on the leaves.

WORMS, CATERPILLARS, GRASSHOPPERS - Feed on the foliage and flower buds.

SADDLEBACK CATERPILLARS - Found on the underside of the foliage. When full grown it is about an inch long. It is brown at each end and the middle is a kelly green with a purple center resembling a small saddle. He stings, so beware.

WHITE FLIES - Small, active pure white insects which suck the juice of the leaves.

RED SPIDER MITES - Found on the underside of the foliage and by close examination a fine webbing with the tiny red spider can be seen. They cause paling or browning of the foliage.

There are many remidies on the market for the insects listed above. BE SURE to read the label and the directions before you use the remedy.
